AVG 9 Download and installation

This has been tried and tested on Windows XP and also the later operating system Windows Vista. This may also work on the latest Windows 7 operating system although I suspect there will be minor differences

You may like to print out these instructions to follow as you go. There are many pages because this guide gives you complete instructions and visuals.

TIP - make a new folder (eg AVG9) in a folder called Downloads

Click Save to save the download to a folder on your PC

File downloads quite quickly – then download closes. If it does not then close it yourself. You may also close all of the other windows.

The download is complete.

You must now reboot your PC to give you a fresh session.

Now the AVG9 installation

Right click the Windows Orb (Vista) or the Start button (XP) then click Explore

Locate your AVG9 download file saved on your computer in the folder where you saved it and double click

If you are running Vista, then you may get message saying This Programme needs your permission to continue – so click Continue The Installation begins.

Make sure that English is your chosen language and then click Next

Your system is checked out.

At this point (or even a later point in this installation) you may get a message that you still have Norton, MaCaffee or another type of antivirus programme still on your PC.

If you get this message, you MUST quit the installation and remove the older software first before starting the installation again.

You can find out how to do this (properly) here... http://www.pchell.com/virus/uninstallmcafee.shtml

Once you have attended to this, restart the AVG 9 installation by double clicking on the downloaded AVG file in your folder – see page 9 and work back through the installation pages.

Select the Standard Installation

And click Next

Enter a name then click Next

AVG will now require you to restart your computer. Click Yes

When your computer restarts, LEAVE IT ALONE!!!!!

It may be some while before this next box appears

You will now need to run a full virus scan to optimise the scanning. This may take quite a while (even hours if your big hard disk drive has a lot of data on it) but it is worth doing now.

This function will optimise all virus scans from now on so that they run faster. Click Optimize.

You can of course defer this to the next run of the Virus Scan by clicking Wait.

The next thing to do is make sure that your anti-virus definitions are fully up to date. Remember that the programme you have just downloaded and installed may be much older than the latest updates, so it is sensible to complete this now.

Double click the AVG icon which was placed on your desktop during the installation process

Now click Update now

You can see here that there are several updates to do. Click Update and the update will start...

...and finish.

Finally you need to set up your virus scan schedule. This dictates when your scan will run automatically provided that your PC is on.

Click Computer Scanner

Then click Manage Scheduled Scans (This is a new improved feature! In previous versions you could only set a scan up for every day, now you can choose the days you want to scan)

The download, installation, update and configuration is now complete.

Your PC should update its antivirus definitions automatically and as long as your PC is switched on at the allotted scheduled scan times, will automatically perform anti-virus scans thus safeguarding your PC from viruses.

You can of course lick off a virus scan manually at any time by just opening AVG and clicking on computer Scanner then Scan whole PC

If you feel that you require further protection, then the Full AVG Internet Security 9 programme would be a good choice. This will cost you £39.99 per year or £59.99 for 2 years if you take advantage of the special offer.

I don't know if AVG will continue to offer free antivirus protection software. Lets hope they do
